The astronomer Lalande narrowly escaped being made famous by a discovery. He accidentally struck Neptune with his glass on May 8, 1785, but supposed it was a star. He put it down in his notebook as a star and recorded its exact situation. Two days later he struck it once more and made a record notes he found he had it down as being in two different places, and as a star supposed he had made a mistake in one night. of his notes. Marshall, Vice President-elect, today refused $4,800, the amount that was arried in the regular appropriation ill to reimburse Mr. Marshall for noney spent for house rent, light, heat, and water during his four years as Governor of Indiana. The former Governor said he did not believe the appropriation constitutional and sent word to the Conference Committee to strike out the $4,800.

What the People are Reading. According to the report of the own library trustees, contained in the annual report of the officers of the town of Enosburg, just issued here was quite a falling off from the receding year in the number of - be public, and that of the whole number taken out dur ng the year, 5,503 volumes, 92 per ent was fiction. These two facts ffer food for reflection. The figures for other librarie broughout Vermont would undoub edly show the same relative propor ion as regards the public taste fo fict on and non-fiction. While this does not indicate, without qualifica ion, a perverted public taste. would not seem to be wholly credit-

The Enosburg public library is well balanced one. There is not an undue proportion of fiction upon the shelves and the departments of his tory, travel, biography, religion, se ence, poetry and philosophy are wel filled. In fact these departments are rich in material for the reader and student, and there is certainly mething lacking when the propos ion of all of these classes of books taken out during a twelve-month period is only eight out of every hun

It would seem to be a lamentable fact that the valuable resources of the library are not being drawn upor as they should be by the students of the public schools in the way of sup plementary reading and the attentio of parents and teachers is invited to this phase of the community life. Children and young people consti tute by far the larger class of pa trons of the public library, and while the catalogue of fiction in the library ontains nothing questionable from moral standpoint, a steady menta liet of fiction alone is surely not con ductive to the best and most wholesome development of the mind. If there are any measures that might be invoked to change the con dition to which the Standard has drawn attention, they are well worth consideration.-Enosburg

Proposals of Amendment to the Constitution of Vermont to Be Ratified March 4, 1913.

FIRST PROPOSAL OF AMENDMENT Relating to approving, signing or vetoing of bills:

ARTICLE II Every bill which shall have passed the senate and house of representatives, shall before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor; if he approve, he shall sign it; if not shall return it, with his objections in writing, to the house, in which it shall have originated; which shall proceed to reconsider it. If, upon such reconsideration, two-thirds of the members present of the house shall pass the bill, it shall, together with the objections, be sent to the other house, by which it shall, likewise, be reconsidered, and, if approved by twothirds of the members present of that thouse, it shall become a law.

But, in all such cases, the votes of both Houses shall be taken by yeas and nays, and the names of the person voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor, as aforesaid, within five days (Sunday excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall become a law, in like manner, as if he had signed it; unless the two Houses, by their adjournment, within three days after the presentment of such bill, shall prevent its return; in which case, it shall not become a law.
